"A reliable source with contacts in the tiny republic of San Marino, which is situated in the central range of the Apennine mountains in Italy, and which is a Communist Island in anti-Communist Italy, reports that the government of the Republic of San Marino has asked Baron PARILLI, representative of the Order of Malte in Paris, (5 Rue de General Appert) to support their claims in regard to war reparations. These claims have been rejected twice by the American Government.

Baron PARILLI asked the aid of Mr. MANN, former representative of the American Treasury in Switzerland. They were to go together to San Marino 'with all discretion', as mentioned in 1 letter signed by the President of the San Marino Republic
